PRINCIPAL'S CORNER

Happy New Year everyone! It is time to make resolutions to improve our lives and better relationships with our family and friends. If you don't believe in making resolutions, then talk to your child about setting goals for the year. For instance, if your child is in third grade or higher, memorizing all the multiplications facts would be a great goal. When we make our resolutions public, then the likelihood for success increases. Others can help us or encourage us to do better. The cooperating teacher I did my student teaching with told a parent something that I remember even today. (That was a long time ago.) She told this person that as a parent she was the first and most important teacher in a child's life. That continues even after children grow up. Thanks for helping us teach your child to be successful. Together we can raise the village...

PLC WEDNESDAYS

In professional development, teachers will be gearing up for the big push until AIMS testing. Teachers will be working on ways to make their own classroom assessments correlate with state standards.
